

I wonder...

- What it means to keep Jesus' commandments.
- How the Spirit of truth works.
- What Jesus wanted the Holy Spirit to teach his followers.

Promises, Promises!

Dear Madeline,

Well, if you've found this note under your pillow, you're probably climbing into bed awfully tired after this very long day. I'm probably climbing into my new bed in my new house, too. And now we're each in our beds, too far away to tuck each other in. But there are some things I want to tell you.

First of all, the most important thing: I love you so much and miss you already! Second, we will be able to visit—don't forget that! It won't be the same as living so close, but there will be good things about visiting, too. Third, I hope you won't forget to do our tradition of committing at least one Random Act of Love each day. Just because we can't always do them together doesn't mean that we can't do them! Just think: now someone (or someones!) in two places will have a Random Act of Love change their day. How about we e-mail each other every night and tell each other what we've done? I'll tell you my Random Act of Love today: I left some of those chocolate chip cookies we baked in the moving truck for the moving guys to enjoy on their way home. What did you do?

Love you, dear girl!

The Promise of the Holy Spirit

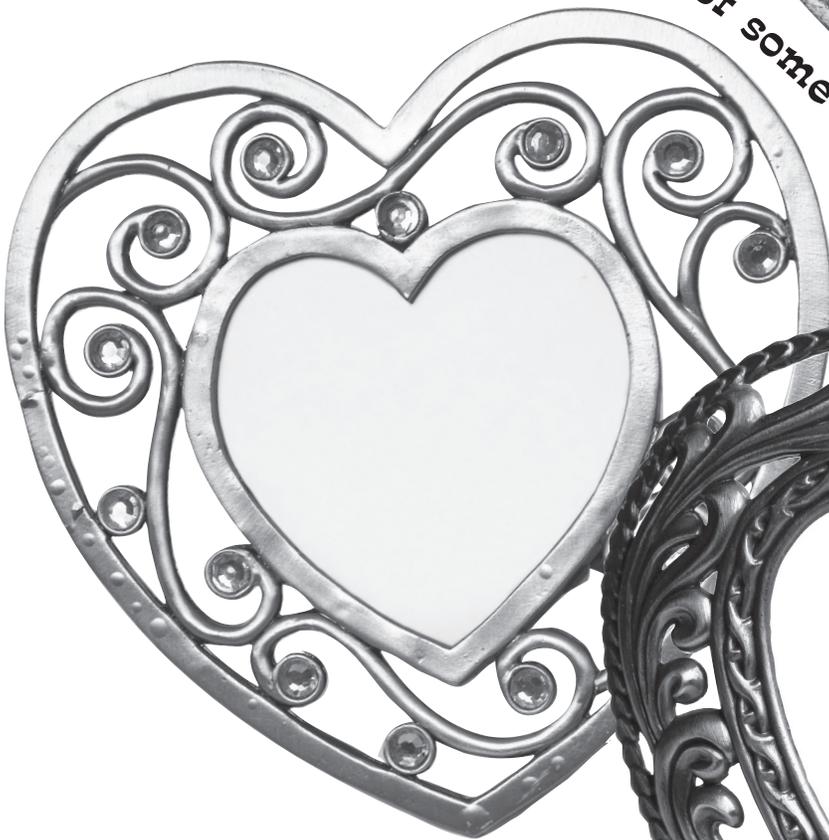

Jesus loved his disciples. He knew he was going to heaven soon and wanted to make sure they weren't afraid.

Jesus told his disciples to love God and love other people.

God sends me lots of friends and family to love.

These are my pictures of some of the people I love.

Promises, Promises

Jesus promises that the Holy Spirit will be with us always. Did you know that the Bible describes some other promises? Use your Bible to look up each of these promises and write the missing words in the blanks. God is faithful and keeps promises!
